Highlights of this past year include:

• Advocating for Isabel Bueso (MPS VI) as she successfully testified before Congress on a ruling that would deport her family and remove access to her life-saving therapy.

• Awarding more than $760,000 in research grants to the world's leading researchers.

• Expanding of the Pathways program with visits to almost 60 newly diagnosed families through home and hospital visits.

• Traveling with more than 60 families to Washington, DC, to advocate for key legislation.

• Establishing the first physician’s masterclass for training postdocs and junior faculty on MPS diseases.

• Hosting the 33rd Annual Family Conference at Walt Disney World, continuing a 25-year tradition.

The Society also said goodbye to long-time friend Christa Armstrong, a Rising Sun Legacy Circle founding member, who gifted the Society an incredible $1 million for MPS II research through our Planned Giving program (see page 15).

This level of planned giving provides the capacity to strengthen our programs in a deeper and more meaningful way. The Christa Armstrong legacy gift meant we could implement the MPS II Research Collaborative and fund two $100,000 research grants focused on newborn screening assays. In addition, the board advanced critical research program strategies by creating the position of chief scientific officer to enhance our staff, a vision that will benefit our patient community. Continued growth of the research program means we are creating new knowledge and producing innovations that will address some of the world’s most pressing MPS questions and challenges.

Our donors continue to trust the National MPS Society because we have continually illustrated the ability to achieve key milestones for our community. We received, for the ninth consecutive year, the coveted 4-star (exceptional) rating from Charity Navigator, an independent charity evaluator, making us a national leader among charities and indicating that we operate and perform in the most fiscally responsible way. The Society is among the top 3% of charities nationwide, outperforming most in the United States. This rating illustrates our dedication to program funding and mission commitment.

Another major role of the Society is to bridge advocacy gaps for our families with local and federal government agencies. This includes providing testimony to the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and meeting with the National Institutes of Health. In 2019, we met with the FDA to support clinical trial design for alpha-mannosidosis enzyme replacement therapies, and presented at the National Institute of Neurological Disorders and Stroke conference on best practices in patient engagement and data management. The Society is a patient group thought leader and was again sought after for input on new FDA guidelines, patient testimony, and clinical trial designs.

As you review the 2019 Annual Report, we hope you note the accomplishments of our board of directors and committees. We are only able to deliver our mission because of the countless hours our volunteers provide to help our families.

We recognize the challenges that lie ahead and the increased compassion it will require to care for our MPS families. We pledge to provide new levels of support for our rare disease community, now facing a global pandemic, to continue to embrace diversity, and to openly acknowledge how these are interwoven within the underserved populations of our country.
The Governance Committee plays a crucial role in the National MPS Society’s guidance and direction by reviewing staff and board member resources, identifying gaps in service delivery, and working to improve overall performance. We are methodically building an infrastructure that will allow the Society to enact real results and sustain its longevity for decades to come. This is accomplished through several key initiatives, such as annual compensation and benefit evaluation, board member reviews, and board election oversight.

Fostering Powerful Change and Superior Outcomes

In 2019, the Governance Committee considered staffing and personnel needs of the Society, including compensation recommendations. One requirement was to fill the position of development director. The Governance Committee also oversaw the president and CEO in completing employee evaluations and was available as a resource as needed.

After dividing communication initiatives among the staff for most of 2019, the committee determined an extensive recruiting process would begin for a communications director in the new year. In addition, the committee, along with the full board, evaluated the organization’s need and approved the creation of a new position, chief scientific officer.

Also in 2019, the Governance Committee oversaw the annual board of directors election process for the upcoming 2020-2021 term. This consisted of a vigorous vetting of all applicants, including personal interviews, prior to the membership voting. For the 2020–2021 term, two new members were welcomed to the board of directors, along with the incumbents. We look to these outstanding volunteers to help guide the Society through strategic decisions.

The Governance Committee exists to ensure that the National MPS Society’s board of directors operates in an effective manner. Members of this committee run the election process, train new board members, make certain the board is actively looking for future members, and perform other duties as directed by the president and CEO.

The Family Support Committee is the cornerstone of our organization. Its purpose is the fundamental reason the Society was created—helping families in every way possible. Whether it’s financial aid during a hard time, assistance with the diagnostic odyssey, or help making educational dreams come true, we support families across the nation.

Our agenda continues to evolve and in addition to funding a variety of programs, the family support pipeline assists with obtaining access to humanitarian programs for approved treatments and establishes global connections for referral.

In 2019, we invested more than $150,000 to improve the lives of 180 families through multiple direct family support initiatives.

The National MPS Society provided a scholarship so that I was able to attend the National Student Leadership Conference where I participated in the Environmental Science and Sustainability Program.

Today, many opportunities are available to me, regardless of my MPS, and others with physical disabilities. My diagnosis has taught me I am special in my own way, and I am grateful for this. Having MPS has helped me to better understand others with rare diseases. It gave me great character and strength. Thank you to the Society for growing as an organization that is forward-thinking and provides educational scholarships.

James Whiteman (MPS VI)
Advocacy is a marathon, not a sprint. We are steadily building the substance of our advocacy efforts, while simultaneously being prepared to deploy immediate action to effect change as circumstances shift throughout the legislative landscape. Policy makers, funders, and the public need to understand what is essential for our families, and why. It is crucial that we continually motivate our allies and supporters so that rare disease issues remain relevant. Advocacy is one of the best ways for our rare disease community to share its stories with those who are empowered to make a real difference on a federal level. Federal policies can increase life-saving medical research and access to care for MPS and ML patients.

The Advocacy Committee focuses on a number of initiatives, including regular calls to action on rare disease legislation, disseminating carefully crafted appropriations language to spread our message, collaborating with the rare disease community as a whole, conducting advocacy training webinars, and growing and fostering relationships with key decision makers.

I came to the United States from Guatemala at age 7 to participate in a clinical trial for MPS VI. After almost 18 years of living legally in this country, I met an unexpected challenge when the administration abruptly ended the deferred action program that enables patients to receive critical care and unique treatments.

Faced with losing life-saving medical treatment, I decided to advocate for patients across the country in a congressional hearing. The policy has been temporarily reversed, and I will continue to work with representatives for a permanent solution. I am grateful for the outpouring of love and support from people who fight with me. This experience taught me that every voice matters and that you can make a difference by speaking up.

Isabel Bueso (MPS VI)

2019 HIGHLIGHTS

- Participated in two trips to Washington, DC, for Rare Disease Day and MPS Awareness Day.

The National MPS Society connects and engages with the MPS and ML community through a variety of communication platforms. We continuously evaluate and expand communications vehicles to ensure efficient message delivery to our members. Through social media, educational materials, printed publications, email, and promotional materials, the Education and Publicity Committee actively seeks new and innovative ways to involve our members and increase public awareness.

Effective and Progressive Communication

In 2019, the National MPS Society continued to increase communication efforts by expanding our electronic newsletter, eCourage, to a monthly publication, creating an Instagram account, and growing our Facebook and Twitter communities. The Society highlighted its extraordinary 45 years of working to support our families and critical research during MPS Awareness Day and throughout the year. We began updating our core educational resources, including MPS and ML booklets, and republished fact sheets for critical care disease management.

Our role as the Education & Publicity Committee is to ensure that MPS and ML messages are clearly written, creatively designed, and shared broadly via our website, social media, pamphlets, emails, videos, etc. We make certain our community is informed and stays engaged with the National MPS Society, particularly around MPS Awareness Day. We also assist other committees in getting their messages heard. We especially enjoy focusing on families. Sharing member and caregiver stories so we can all learn from and support each other is our joy and privilege.

2019 HIGHLIGHTS

- Increased efforts to raise awareness for International MPS Awareness Day, May 15.
- Increased e-Courage subscriptions to more than 2,200 members.
- Secured a four-page article in SciTech Europa Quarterly, highlighting 45 years of the National MPS Society.
- Participated in the podcast Mendelspod, to discuss MPS and educate listeners nationwide.
- Began updating MPS booklets, a primary resource for our members and their networks.
- Completed a comprehensive revision of the fact sheet library for the MPS and ML community.
- Implemented a resource library for adults with MPS and ML, adding specific fact sheets for independent living and care management.
- Continued the second phase of website integration.
- Created new strategies and restructured the committee, which comprises four sub-committees: Content Development, Design Development, MPS Awareness Day, and Strategic Planning.
An increasing number of MPS and ML patients are living into adulthood due to the efforts of the National MPS Society, physicians, families, and support systems. Increase in the MPS and ML adult population created a need to discuss unique issues that these adults experience and share. To have a voice within the Society, as well as become actively involved within the MPS adult community, a group of individuals created the Adult Resource Committee (ARC).

The ARC, although a recent endeavor, quickly established a solid groundwork for increased advocacy and programs for adults in the Society. In 2020, ARC members will have an opportunity to raise awareness, participate in social support sessions, and plan their SPIRIT Conference. This is a tremendous opportunity to take on a greater role in individual care management and mentoring those who will come after.

2019 HIGHLIGHTS

- Released the official “Road Kit” for adults with MPS and ML. This kit provides information and resources for those who are transitioning into adulthood and beyond.
- Hosted the largest attended SPIRIT Conference in Orlando, FL, for more than 45 adults with MPS and ML. Presentations, networking, and social activities provided targeted information regarding care, jobs, and well being. The SPIRIT Conference also offered opportunities for networking with other adults and health professionals, strengthening the patient community.
- Created Project RARE, a fundraising and awareness-cultivating project where merchandise featuring designs created by MPS and ML adults will be sold online. Items will be sold on Café Press. Funds will support ARC initiatives.

ARC provides an extension of our strength and individuality. As a patient and research scientist, I was honored to present last year at our family conference on “The Importance of Patient Involvement in the Drug Development Process.” Science will render the answers we need for MPS and ML; while this transpires, I am thankful for the contributions ARC members can bring to our community.

Jennifer Klein (ML III), scientist, ARC member

I have been living with MPS I for 26 years. One of the many ways this disease affects my body is by limiting my vision. Thanks to the National MPS Society’s Family Support Program, I recently was able to obtain a new vision device called eSight. This device has allowed me to see things at a distance. I am hopeful that eSight will help me to become more independent and experience the world in a new way.

Jerry Klemm (MPS I)
Expanding Avenues of Support

MPS families rely on the Society’s support, starting with diagnosis. Our long-term vision includes identifying new ways to provide services to families and individuals throughout their journey with MPS or ML. The Pathways program executes this forward-thinking approach by deploying skilled social workers who travel the country to meet with newly diagnosed families during this critical time. Home visits maximize the opportunity to provide meaningful, compassionate, and direct assistance.

Pathways provides tools for families and individuals throughout the first year of diagnosis that equip and strengthen them as they move forward. Linking families with local and national services ensures they receive high-quality care and have access to essential resources. The Pathways program has enrolled more than 120 families since its inception three years ago.

2019 HIGHLIGHTS

- Provided services to 66 families in their first year of diagnosis.
- Conducted more than 58 face-to-face visits with families in their homes or at the hospital in 21 states.
- Averaged three to four newly diagnosed family referrals to the program each month.
- Provided services to 13 families through newborn screening. Newborn screening has enhanced the program to reach families sooner.
- Arranged newly diagnosed meetings at the annual family conference.
- Distributed disease-specific information and resources to assist with accessing therapies and clinical trial information.
- Strengthened relationships with industry partners to provide comprehensive support to newly diagnosed families.
- Implemented interpreter services to assist Spanish-speaking families.

Charlie Grace was diagnosed with MPS I through newborn screening. We connected with the National MPS Society immediately and enrolled in the Pathways program. When Charlie Grace was one month old, we had an in-home visit and received support in so many ways for the entire first year after diagnosis. The most important thing I have learned is to accept MPS. This is who Charlie Grace is and she is perfect. The Society is hands down amazing.

Amanda Sinard, mother of Charlie Grace (MPS I)

During the first few months after Aaron’s diagnosis, our family was lost. We didn’t know who to turn to or where to seek resources and information. We found the National MPS Society through a Google search. They opened their arms to our family, answered questions, and provided us with materials, research, support, and links to pharmaceutical representatives to educate us on enzyme replacement therapy. I attended a gala and met families from across the country. They immediately embraced me and made me feel like the Society was a true family. They assisted us in completing and submitting a scholarship application, and flew Aaron and me to Florida for our very first family conference. My son felt so special and continues to talk about Camp Courage. The administrators, staff, and families made him feel welcome and also provided me with additional information about his disease. I am proud to now serve on the Family Support Committee. It is an honor for our family to be involved.

Ginger Beverly, mother of Aaron (MPS IVA)
The funding and encouragement the National MPS Society provides to researchers, especially those in the early stages of their career, have been vital to the development of a new generation of clinical and basic scientists. I am grateful to have received this support in my own career, and honored now to help the Society grow and enrich its research efforts as we drive toward discovering new therapies.

Dr. Richard Steet, Greenwood Genetic Center
This innovative research could not be accomplished without the selfless commitment of our global MPS scientists, who continue to seek answers for our children. Our commitment and dedication to advancing our mission through these partnerships is highlighted in these impressive, carefully chosen, pivotal research projects:

"We always knew my nephew was special. When he was diagnosed with MPS IVA I wanted to help in any way possible. I knew I couldn’t cure MPS, but I could raise money and awareness for this rare genetic disease. Our family hosted an art auction, and all of the funds we raised went to research to try to find a cure. This was my first fundraiser for MPS but it certainly won’t be my last.

2019 Annual Report 13
2019 was the ninth year for the National MPS Society’s Planned Giving Program. There are now 29 donors in the Rising Sun Legacy Circle. Planned giving helps donors maximize the personal benefits of charitable giving and allows donors to make gifts they may not have thought possible. Individuals who make these gifts to the National MPS Society, whether through their estates, wills, or other life-income arrangements, share a strong common bond of generosity that will provide security for future generations. Building this community of philanthropy helps our donors achieve their personal vision and fulfills their desire to contribute.

Annual Fund Donations

As an adult with MPS II, it was an honor to chair the 2019 Annual Fund. We raised a historic level of funding for our research and family support programs. This important contribution is an example of how giving can provide key assets for the Adult Resource Committee.

Jason Madison (MPS II), chair, 2019 Annual Fund
This past fall, the National MPS Society lost a long-time friend, Christa Armstrong, who passed away at age 101. Christa became a member of the Society in the early 2000s and stayed in constant contact ever since. Her brother, Ulrich von Tippelskirch, had MPS II and passed away in 1964.

In 2011, Christa became one of the first members of the Rising Sun Legacy Circle. These individuals have pledged a legacy, or planned gift, with the Society—one of the highest and most meaningful contributions an organization can receive. After Christa’s passing last year, the Society was notified of her legacy gift: an astonishing $1 million.

Christa Armstrong—Journalist, Photographer, and Author—Gifts the Society for MPS II Research

Christa’s memoir, “Heiligengrabe or Speaking in the Third Person,” describes her life during World War II in Berlin where several of her friends belonged to a group plotting to assassinate Hitler. She courageously supported imprisoned members of the resistance and protected a Jewish friend, whom she hid in her apartment. Christa escaped shortly before the Russians took Berlin. In 1948, she immigrated to the United States and married Hamilton Fish Armstrong, founding editor of Foreign Affairs. Together they traveled the world’s conflict zones of the 1950s and 60s, and her articles and photos were published in several countries. After her husband’s passing, Christa traveled to South Africa and across Europe researching the history of her family, who followed a religious guru in the early 1800s to Cape Town, South Africa. Her findings were the basis for her second book, “God’s Errant Children.”

We had the privilege of meeting Christa and her family in person, and over the years the Society enjoyed sending her Courage publications and keeping her informed on MPS research, especially the approval in 2006 of Elaprase, the enzyme replacement therapy developed to treat MPS II.

MPS II research was a focus for Christa and her family, and through this incredibly generous legacy gift, the Society will be able to continue to fund critical research pathways.

“I’m so glad that Christa’s bequest will help future scientific research into MPS II,” said Christa’s nephew, Christian von Tippelskirch. “Christa had high standards, self-discipline, and felt responsibility for others. She was the most wonderful and reliable friend who cherished giving to others.”

At the 33rd Annual Family Conference, the Society presented Christian, along with Christa’s niece, Dorothea von Tippelskirch-Eissing, the esteemed Visionary Award.

“Christa observed our family experience Hunter syndrome for decades,” said Christian. “You can imagine how much it means to us that her vision has been fulfilled by her contribution to establish the first MPS Syndrome Collaboration Network for MPS II Research, and to be a part of supporting new global research into the illness.”

Lynn Hopkins, Terri Klein, Christian von Tippelskirch, and Lisa Todd
In 2019, the National MPS Society was able to provide support to families and funding for research because of the generosity of the following individuals, families, foundations, companies, groups, and fundraising events. The board of directors and the Fundraising Committee thank you for your dedication.

The Society makes every effort to recognize our supporters through eCourage and this Annual Report. The following list represents all donations received in calendar year 2019. If your name is not listed, we apologize and ask that you contact us. If we received your donation in 2020, you will be recognized in the next Annual Report.
